The Manamaker Store A Careful, Bountiful, Economical New York Christmas Store

NEW YORK JOURNAL, DECEMBER 12, 1899.

SALESPEOPLE should ask you twice for the name and address, or read it are those who find their money going further than they thought to you as they have caught it-we must be very careful to have all the We are not magicians that can turn Five Dollars into Ten, but we can Santa Claus work done with precision—and we never had so much of it to and do enable your dollars to buy the most and best,—and when is do. You'll help us this far, we know.

It's fine, surely, to choose Christmas gifts from such a store-ful. Only the most modern of modern shot, for there're several hun- storekeeping has made this variety possible. Think of having direct importations from twenty countries dred suit remnants on the firing spread before you. There isn't another store anywhere with such stocks of goods—we are as alone in this bountifulness as though we had a patent on it.

Here's a very true story: A buyer from our staff was secured by another store-many believe they That means coats and vests, could raise a Wanamaker plant with our gardeners—he was used to big stocks and started to gather them. $7.50; suits, $10—most of which Trouble came—he was told that such extravagance wouldn't do. To-morrow morning we will place on view in the Tissot Gallery the original of the wonderful composite Madonna, produced by Joseph Gray Kitchell, of Indianapolis. It is the composite of two hundred and seventy-one of the art-world's conceptions of the Mother of the Saviour, the effect being a face of rare, strange LADIES' fine sheer French Emb'd beauty. How could painters of many times have produced faces of their ideal that in the merciless camera ROGERS, PEET & Co. would blend into one more intensely beautiful than any one of them? But come see the original—or one of the two; for the Congressional Library has one-several newspapers have published cuts of this picture.
